President, 1981

Youngstown State University

My favorite "fun" OACRAO Memory...

I always enjoyed the getting together for our meetings and any other events with my colleagues from around the state. They were a great bunch of good people.

Where is he now?

My wife and my family run a part time catering business from our home. We specialize in barbecue foods. Over the years I created a seasoning mixture which we use on most everything we cook, especially the meats. I am known as "Bill the BBQ man". My seasoning is called "Uncle Bills" all purpose seasoning. I market it in several local stores and send it to various people across the country who have been exposed to the stuff.

How I got involved in OACRAO...

Following graduation from YSU where I majored in Accounting, I worked as an Internal Revenue Agent for about 8 years. The job paid well and the benefits were very good. Despite this, I wasn't too excited about playing with figures every day. And, of course, people did not like me coming around and making them pay more taxes, if appropriate. While I attended Youngstown College, which later became Youngstown University and still later, Youngstown State University, I worked as a student in the Registrars Office. I knew well, the President, Dean, Registrar and others. I informed them that I would be interested in some kind of work at the University in the Admissions or Registrar's Offices. I eventually got a job as an Admissions Counselor and later became the Director of Admissions, from which I retired in July 1989.
